

Kim Jordan-Casarona, DSW,LCSW,LCADC is the Treatment Coordinator for the Rutgers Tobacco Dependence Program, Instructor at The Division of General Internal Medicine at the Rutgers Robert Wood Johnson Medical School and a Core Member of the Rutgers Institute for Nicotine & Tobacco Studies (INTS). Dr. Casarona holds both a masters and doctoral degree in social work from Rutgers University and has over 35 years of treatment experience in behavioral health and addiction.

In addition to her clinical work, Dr. Casarona provides technical support to Quit Centers throughout the State of NJ. She also provides clinical education and training in the area of tobacco dependence and treatment to health professionals and individuals seeking certification as Tobacco Treatment Specialists. Her professional interests include improving the effectiveness of behavioral treatment for tobacco dependence and co-occurring use disorder.